The Gaylord College of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of Oklahoma seeks to hire a tenure-track assistant professor in multimedia journalism.

The College seeks an experienced multimedia journalist who can teach courses in multimedia information gathering, multimedia editing, web design and content management. The ideal candidate will also have the ability to develop software applications for mobile media and have a strong visual communication background. Interest in executing research and contributing to the college’s graduate programs is a plus.

A bachelor's degree and significant professional experience are required; master's or Ph.D. preferred.

Women and men of ethnically diverse backgrounds, including, but not limited to, African-Americans, Asian-Americans, Latinos, and Native Americans, are particularly urged to apply. The university welcomes the creativity and unique contributions which diversity offers to students preparing to work in a diverse society.

The Gaylord College of Journalism and Mass Communication was founded in 2000, after a generous gift from the family of Edward L. Gaylord, owner of the Oklahoma Publishing Company. The Gaylord College is becoming one of the leading centers of mass communication teaching and scholarship in the United States. A newly revised journalism curriculum offers strong training in the skills and concepts of multimedia journalism, presentation and content management.

The size of the faculty is expanding, and the College has a state-of-the-art Gaylord Hall completed in 2004 and expanded in 2009. New faculty will take an active part in this growth through superior teaching, innovative curriculum development, and notable research or creative activity. The College offers the BA, MA, and Ph.D. in journalism, advertising and public relations, and media arts and a master’s (MPW) degree in professional writing.

The University of Oklahoma is located in Norman, a dynamic and growing part of the Oklahoma City media market. Norman has a diverse population with numerous artistic and cultural opportunities, a variety of restaurants and recreational activities, reasonable housing, and an excellent public school system.

Applications for the search will be reviewed beginning October 15, 2009, and will be accepted until all positions are filled. Applicants should provide 1) a letter describing their teaching and professional experience and their areas of research interest, 2) a complete curriculum vitae, and 3) names, addresses (postal and electronic), and telephone numbers of at least three references. Applications should be sent to:
