The Gaylord College of Journalism and Mass Communication
The University of Oklahoma

The Gaylord College seeks a forward-looking professional whose interests and passions are in online, innovative journalism and applying technological innovation to enable public discourse.

She or he will teach courses in multimedia content management, web and mobile design, and multimedia information gathering and editing. The ideal candidate will also have the ability to develop applications for interactive and/or mobile media and have a background in visual communication. Interest in executing research or creative activity and contributing to the college’s graduate programs, particularly in new media or visual communication, is essential.

This is a tenure-track assistant professor position. A master's degree is required and a Ph.D. is preferred. Significant professional online journalism experience is also preferred.

Women and men of ethnically diverse backgrounds, including, but not limited to, African-Americans, Asian-Americans, Latinos, and Native Americans, are particularly urged to apply. The university welcomes the creativity and unique contributions which diversity offers to students preparing to work in a diverse society.

For additional information, please contact Charles Self, chair of the search committee at cself@ou.edu.

The Gaylord College of Journalism and Mass Communication was founded in 2000, after a generous gift from the family of Edward L. Gaylord, owner of the Oklahoma Publishing Company. The Gaylord College is becoming one of the leading centers of mass communication teaching and scholarship in the United States. The size of the faculty is expanding, and the College has a state-of-the-art Gaylord Hall completed in 2004 and expanded in 2009. New faculty will take an active part in the growth of the College through superior teaching, innovative curriculum development, and notable research or creative activity. The College offers the BA, MA, and Ph.D. in journalism, advertising and public relations, and media arts and a master’s (MPW) degree in professional writing. For more information about our University and College, please go to our website www.ou.edu/gaylord.

The University of Oklahoma is located in Norman, a dynamic and growing part of the Oklahoma City media market. Norman has a diverse population with numerous artistic and cultural opportunities, a variety of restaurants and recreational activities, reasonable housing, and an excellent public school system.

Applications for the search will be reviewed beginning October 22, 2010, and will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants should provide 1) a letter describing their teaching and professional experience and their areas of research interest, 2) a complete curriculum vitae, and 3) names, addresses (both postal and electronic), and telephone numbers of at least three references. Applications should be sent to:

Multimedia Journalism Search Committee
Gaylord College of Journalism and Mass Communication
The University of Oklahoma
395 W. Lindsey, Room 3000
Norman, Oklahoma 73019-4201

The University of Oklahoma is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.