State-of-the-art Facility

- 107,000 square feet of labs, classrooms, and study areas
- Dedicated study areas for graduate assistants and private cubicles for doctoral students
- A journalism and mass communication library

Admission Deadlines

Students may be admitted throughout the year, but courses are scheduled to facilitate a fall semester start.

Fall Semester
July 1

Spring Semester
November 1

Summer Semester
April 1

International Students
March 1

Assistantships & Scholarships
February 1

For more information about the Gaylord College graduate program, contact Kelly Storm at 405-325-2722 (kstorm@ou.edu).

Follow us on Twitter: @GaylordCollege
‘Like’ us on Facebook: Gaylord College Students
www.ou.edu/gaylord
The Gaylord College of Journalism and Mass Communication offers broad-based theoretical and practical approaches to the study of media, and provides the necessary flexibility for students to pursue a wide variety of career goals and research interests. Core and elective courses are designed to stimulate critical and intellectual analysis. The breadth of the curriculum allows students to tailor their graduate education to their own professional needs and objectives.

Master of Professional Writing

The Master of Professional Writing program focuses on novel writing, nonfiction books and screenwriting.

Ph.D. in Mass Communication

Doctoral students will find a faculty with a wide range of research interests encompassing a variety of approaches and perspectives related to the program’s three concentrations:

- News and Information
- Strategic Communication
- Media Arts

We seek junior colleagues who wish to explore the practices and values of journalism, mass communication and the media professions. The program is highly competitive.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts in Journalism and Mass Communication provides four concentrations of study:

- Strategic Communication
- Broadcasting and Electronic Media
- Journalism
- Mass Communication Management

The graduate program offers three degree completion options: Thesis, Project and Comprehensive Exams.

Faculty Expertise

Among the areas of faculty expertise are: management, ethics and normative theory, law, race and gender, international public relations, new media advertising, message strategy and tactics, and documentary. Our graduate faculty also includes distinguished professionals and practitioners from the areas represented in our program.

Graduate Funding

Master’s Program

The Gaylord College currently offers about 20 graduate assistantships and seven scholarships.

Doctoral program

The Gaylord College will offer excellent funding to five students per year.

Graduate Director: Dr. Meta G. Carstarphen
Graduate Adviser: Ms. Kelly Storm