What:
This is the first of several events led by medical students that will be scheduled throughout the year. Each event will be geared toward teaching students valuable skills that are practical to the medical field. At this event, we will be teaching how to suture on real pig’s feet.

When:
Saturday, November 5
Session A: 9-10:30 a.m.
Session B: 11-12:30 p.m.

Registration:
Opens October 19 at noon. The event is limited to 25 students per session and is offered on a first-registration basis. Please register only if you are seriously interested as spots are limited.

Registration can be completed at the following link:
http://scmmarket.com

Cost:
$25, due at registration

Why:
• Develop practical skills to the medical field
• Gain an advantage by learning how to suture early. You’ll look like a professional on surgery rotations
• Develop connections with pre-health students from local undergraduate institutions
• Become acquainted with the OU-TU School of Community Medicine
• Develop relationships with current medical students who can serve as mentors for advice
• Enhance your CV and show your passion for medicine
• Snacks are provided

Please let me know if you have any questions. I really hope this event enhances your passion for medicine.

Casey Fitzgerald,
Medical Student, Third Year
cfitzge1@ouhsce.edu