This course will examine modern French history by asking who was part of the nation, and who was considered to be outside of it? What role have gender and religious identities played in transforming French citizenship over the past two centuries? Who was part of France? Who will make the France of tomorrow?