IPE 3913.995
The Psychology of Place
SPRING 2011 — ONLINE Course

Taught by Dr. H. Michael Crowson

This course addresses several questions regarding the connection between people and the places they inhabit:

- “What physical, social, and psychological factors are associated with peoples’ identification with and attachment to built and natural environments?”
- “What characteristics of built and natural environments are associated with psychological well-being?”
- “How does a person’s attachment to place impact his/her desire to enhance and/or protect built or natural spaces?”

ENROLL NOW THROUGH OZONE!

[Interdisciplinary Perspectives On The Environment]