Please join us for coffee, light refreshments, and a behind-the-scenes look at the “A-Files” — the Carl Albert Center Congressional Archives, one of the country’s largest collections of original documents and photographs of political history.

Professional Archivist Robert Lay will guide our discovery of the roles that Oklahomans have played in presidential politics. (Hint: Four Oklahomans were presidential candidates.)

Robert Lay is a certified archivist who holds bachelor’s and master’s degrees in history from Louisiana Tech University. Before joining the Carl Albert Center last year, he had previously worked with the congressional papers of Senator Robert J. Dole at the University of Kansas and Senator John B. Breaux at Louisiana State University.

You are welcome to bring a friend to this event.
