The daughter of Czech immigrants, Olinka Hrdy (1902-1987) grew up in Prague, OK, and worked her way through the University of Oklahoma by painting murals on campus. A highly original and advanced artist, Hrdy later worked with the Oklahoma architect Bruce Goff before she settled in California. This exhibition and its catalogue, written by guest curator Mark Andrew White, represents an important step in presenting the many contributions of this Oklahoma artist. Co-organized by the Fred Jones Jr. Museum of Art and the Price Tower Arts Center of Bartlesville, Oklahoma Moderne: The Art and Design of Olinka Hrdy has been designated as an official Oklahoma Centennial exhibition.
