Course Numbers
All courses are identified by numbers composed of four digits. Courses numbered 1000-2999 are referred to as “lower-division,” those numbered 3000-4999 are “upper-division,” and those numbered 5000 and above are “graduate-level.”

The first digit indicates the class year in which the subject is ordinarily taken, although enrollment is not exclusive as to student classification:

Courses numbered 0000 to 0999 are developmental remedial courses offering no college credit. Courses numbered 1000 to 1999 are primarily freshman level.

Courses numbered 2000 to 2999 are primarily sophomore level. Courses numbered 3000 to 3999 are primarily junior level.

Courses numbered 4000 to 4999 are primarily senior level.

Courses numbered 5000 to 5999 are primarily for post-baccalaureate students, except by permission of the department and the graduate dean.

Courses numbered 6000 to 6999 are restricted to post-baccalaureate students, except by permission of the department and the graduate dean.

The second and third digits identify the course within the field.

The fourth digit denotes the number of credit hours assigned to the course. A zero (0) as the fourth digit indicates the course is offered for a variable number of credit hours. No change may be made in the number of credit hours specified for the various courses as indicated in the catalog.

The only exception is University course 4000 which carries graduate credit when completed through the Scholar-Leadership Enrichment Program.

Publications and Advertising

All advertising and promotional literature provided by the University of Oklahoma shall be accurate and not misleading to the public.

Student Services

One

OU’s web-based information portal One serves as a gateway for student, faculty and staff, providing services to include obtaining grades, counseling, registration and information, library resources, computer support and equipment appropriate to the master’s and doctoral degrees offered by OU. One requires only a single sign-on and is available 24/7.

Faculty and administrative staff have additional access privileges in One. Faculty may access the class roster for each course they teach as well as post grades for each course. Support staff, such as the OU-North America staff and the OU-Norman campus office staff are able to review student registration, transcripts and account information such as registration holds and other information necessary to ensure students are afforded a high level of customer service around the world.

Counseling and Advisement

Each student is assigned a designated advisor to provide degree completion counseling and advisement. Additionally, faculty advisors are periodically scheduled to teach courses in Florida. Students may be advised before or after class, during posted office hours or at appointment times when the advisor is on site. The OU Site Director will notify students of advising opportunities and assist students in establishing these appointments.

Professors are available to students for consultation outside class time. Each professor designates hours for consultation on the course syllabus. The professor can be available at least one half hour before each class session, for four hours on a specified day for walk-in consultation and/or by appointment. Syllabi also contain information on how the professor can be reached before and after class sessions by mail, phone and e-mail.

Online Application

Students may apply to the University of Oklahoma through the OU’s Online Application system. Links to the online application are available through the OU website. The OU-Site Director is available to provide assistance to students for completion of the online application as needed. OU will enroll those academically qualified individuals who meet OU’s admission requirements.

Students may enroll online through the OU student information system. Additional information located in One includes enrollment tools to locate courses, enroll, add or drop, view course descriptions and also provides online instruction for these various functions.
Library
The library needs of OU students and faculty around the world are met through the extensive holdings of the University of Oklahoma Libraries, which contain more than 5 million volumes, 75,000 serials subscriptions (print and electronic) and 300 databases. The University of Oklahoma Libraries rank 26th out of 114 academic research libraries in North America for volumes held and has been a depository library for federal government documents since 1893. OU-AP students are eligible for some additional library services beyond those available to students on the OU-Norman campus which includes the ability to search the entire collection and to receive research assistance. Librarians in Norman send books, articles, government publications, periodicals and interlibrary loans directly to the students worldwide, whereas local students must obtain their own materials. As well, a link for distance learning students has been made available to OU student off campus. Through this web link, OU-Hurlburt students get individualized and immediate assistance in obtaining books, articles and other materials from recent scholarly sources not yet available in full-text. All books except those not normally circulated on campus are available to OU students worldwide. OU-Hurlburt students can access these services from the OU-Advanced Programs website, One, or through the OU Libraries website.

Computer Support
The University of Oklahoma has incorporated the increasing use of technology to enhance its communication and academic capabilities in support of off campus students. Students at Hurlburt and other off campus locations have been found to utilize technology to a greater degree and skill. Due to the increased computer usage in education, homes, and business, most military installations have increased the type and number of facilities with computer and Internet services. Among these are base libraries, Army learning resource centers, MWR Internet cafes and unit facilities which are available to military servicemembers. OU supports students by providing access to information technology support and access to software and hardware at educational discounts.

Course Textbooks
Students obtain their texts and materials through the Follett Student Direct Ordering system via any of five methods; 1) online website, 2) phone, 3) fax, 4) e-mail, or 5) mail-in order. It is the University’s policy to order paperback/soft cover books whenever they are available in order to provide course materials at the lowest cost to students. Additionally, if available, Follett provides used textbooks (upon student request) at an even lower cost, textbook rentals and eBooks.

Course Syllabi
OU’s registration period is ongoing throughout the semester. OU ensures that course syllabi, faculty vita and required textbooks are available to students in and downloadable from the OU-AP website in a timely manner – at least 10 weeks before the first class session. The syllabus guides the students through preparatory reading and assignments and provides focus for the entire course.

OU-AP Website
OU maintains a website at GoOU.ou.edu. Students can access a wide variety of resources from this page. In addition to the data found on the home page, many links direct students to other valuable websites across the campus. Among the items found on the website are:

- OU-Advanced Programs Bulletin (catalog)

The ceremony is followed by a reception for the graduates and all guests. Site Directors from nearby sites, professors from the academic programs or other campus representatives may participate in the ceremony to honor the graduates.

Graduates are also invited to participate in the formal graduation ceremony in the spring held in Norman, Oklahoma. OU-AP provides a pre-ceremony reception for AP graduates around the world. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that the site director has received and processed the drop.

Drops that occur 30 days or less before the first class session will incur the associated penalty as outlined above. A request to waive the penalty must be accompanied by documentation of one of the following:

- Personal illness documented by a notice from a physician or a copy of the medical bill, which clearly indicates that the student would be unable to attend the class sessions. This should note the specific dates of the illness and inability to attend class.
- Military Travel Order or Permanent Change of Station Order, which clearly indicates that the student would be unable to attend the class sessions. The order must include dates of class sessions.

Advanced Programs reserves the right to verify the documentation. Other appeals will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis. A student wishing to withdraw from a course for reasons that do not meet the criteria for a waiver request (refer to the drop policy) is responsible for full tuition. If a student leaves class or does not attend class once the course begins for reasons that do not meet the criteria for a waiver request, the student will remain enrolled and will need to request to withdraw through the professor; students will, then, receive a grade of W or F as assigned by the professor. Penalty waiver requests for courses that have begun are reviewed on a case-by-case basis and only for extreme and extenuating circumstances.
