Course Title:
Current Problems in Human Relations

Course Number:
HR 5013-223

Course Description:
The United States as well as the global community that we are part of is replete with ever-changing social problems. In this class, we will grapple with some of these issues in order to examine the role of HR professionals in addressing concerns such as urbanization, refugees, gender-based violence, the health needs of returning veterans, and many other pressing and current problems.

Class Dates, Location and Hours:
Dates: September 15-20, 2015
Location: Ansbach, Germany Education Center.
Hours: Tuesday - Friday 6:00-9:30 pm; Saturday and Sunday 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
Last day to enroll or drop without penalty: August 17, 2015

Course Objectives:

The goal of this course is to familiarize you with some of the major current problems facing our global population. We will approach our discussion from the perspective of intersectionality, allowing you to develop the skills necessary to analyze these problems taking into consideration the interplay amongst factors such as race, class, gender, nation of origin, etc. Finally, we will begin to grapple with solutions to these concerns. Ideally, you will leave the class better prepared to identify and analyze significant social problems.

Course Outline:

The course will be conducted in a series of lectures, interactive group discussion, and media presentations, as well as individual presentations of selected chapter topics. Before the class, students should have read all the assigned readings.

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:

Attendance and Participation:

Attendance and participation in class discussions and activities are valuable aspects of any course because much of learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies. Excused absences are given for professor-mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

Individual Topic/Chapter Presentation:

A 15-20 minute class presentation on a specific chapter from the Zinn and colleagues text will be required. Assignments of individual presentations will be made the first class meeting. Please take the time to review the chapters and come prepared on the first day of class with your top three choices. Every effort will be made to accommodate everyone’s preferences.

Students will be asked to briefly summarize the content, critically analyze it and conclude their own reaction to the chapter (e.g., agree/disagree with the author, have had a similar or different experience in the same area, learned something or changed your views after reading the chapter). Within the reaction portion of the presentation, please minimize prejudices, biases, unfounded beliefs, and reliance on emotional reactions, which can sidetrack good sound judgment and opinions rooted in your learning and in the human relations’ perspective. Presentations will receive a grade out of 100 points. We will discuss the format for the presentation and related grading criteria in more detail during our first class session.

Book Review Presentation and Reaction Paper:

You are required to read one additional book (chosen from the list below) before the first day of class. These books are readily available from the OU bookstore, from vendors such as Amazon.com or BN.com, or from the OU library. You may also select a book of your own choosing, as long as you clear the selection with the instructor in advance (ensuring that it is relevant to the class). A class discussion will be led by those students who read each book (it is not necessary for all the books to be represented). We will use the first day of class to ascertain which students read which books and to schedule book review discussion days accordingly. If you read the book under discussion, you are required to provide your thoughts and analysis on the day of the discussion. Even if you agree with others, you will need to build upon what they said.

In addition, on the day your book is being discussed, you will be required to submit (in the relevant D2L dropbox and by 5PM local time) a five-page, double-spaced reaction paper detailing your thoughts on and reactions to the book you read. This paper should be informal, yet scholarly, and will provide you with a forum to link the book to the material we are covering in class. You may also provide your personal perspective as the book relates to your experiences or other classes you have taken. Papers showing the most depth of thought and analysis will receive the highest grades. Your paper will receive a grade out of 100.

Book List:

1. Is there no place on earth for me? Susan Sheehan, 1982
5. Coming of age, Studs Terkel, 1995
7. The way we really are: Coming to terms with America’s changing families, S. Coontz, 1998.
10. Angela’s ashes, Frank McCourt, 1996
11. The price of motherhood: Why the most important job in the world is still the least valued, Ann Crittendon, 2001.
15. You just don’t understand: Women and men in conversation, Deborah Tannen, 1990

Final Paper:

You will need complete a final paper discussing a current problem of your choice. It is highly recommended that you select an aspect of the problem to discuss; this will make your paper more manageable (e.g., rather than looking just at drug use in general, look at teenage drug use or discuss urban homelessness, etc.)

Your paper should include an overview of the problem that you have selected. You should explain the various dimensions of the problem (e.g., the ways that race, class, gender, culture, etc. interact when considering this problem) and the reasons why you have selected it as a current problem for human relations. In addition, you should provide an analysis of some of the ways in which the problem can be addressed (what has already been done, why has this worked or not worked, what do you think should be done to address the problem and why, etc.?). You need to use at least seven sources for your paper, of which no more than two may be reports published by governmental, non-governmental, and/or non-profit organizations. The remainder of your sources needs to be scholarly books and/or journal articles. Only one of these may be a chapter we covered in class. Your paper should be approximately seven to ten pages long and should be typed, double-spaced, and should use conventional margins. Finally, your paper needs to conform to APA formatting guidelines.

Your paper will receive a grade out of 100. Late papers will receive an automatic 10-point deduction for each day the paper is late. Final grades will be assessed in the following manner: 10 points for stylistic considerations (correct use of APA format, font, margins, page length, etc.); 60 points for content (the thoroughness of your discussion of the problem you selected, the completeness of your analysis of potential solutions to the problem, etc.); 30 points for critical thinking (the degree to which you provide a thoughtful analysis of the dimensions of the problem, the thoughtfulness of your discussion of potential solutions to the problem, etc.)

We will discuss the final papers and the selection of topics during the first day of class. Please give thought to the issue that you would like to address in order to participate fully in this discussion. Draw upon your textbooks and the book review books for examples of the kinds of problems you may want to consider. You may also email the instructor with any questions. On the second day of class, you will be asked to briefly present your chosen topic to the class, including your reasons for selecting this topic (this does not have to be based on a literature review, but should consist of your current understanding of the issue and the reason you have selected it). This presentation will be brief and informal (five to ten minutes). It will provide you with an opportunity to brainstorm with your colleagues and the professor about the ways in which intersectionality may be significant to your topic, and will serve to as an opportunity to expose others to the issues you are interested in. If you do not come prepared for this discussion, 10 points will be deducted from your final paper.

More details regarding your final papers will be posted to D2L. All papers will be due on October 5 via D2L. Please note that all deadlines are 5PM CST.

D2L:

Regular updates and relevant information regarding the course will be posted to the “headlines” page on D2L (that is the main page you access when you first log on). In order to ensure that you do not miss any new information of relevance to the course, you will be responsible for checking the “headlines” page at least once each day during the six days of the class. Additional information, links, and documentation will be posted on the “contents” page. Please also see the “links” page for websites that may be of interest to you and that are relevant to the course. Finally, all assignments are due in the relevant “dropbox.”

Grading:

This is a letter-graded course: A, B, C, D, or F. A = 90-100%; B = 80-89%; C = 70-79%; D = 60-69%; F = 60%>

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Honesty

Honesty is a fundamental precept in all academic activities and … [you] have a special obligation to observe the highest standards of honesty. Academic misconduct in any form is inimical to the purposes and functions of the University and is therefore unacceptable and is rigorously proscribed. Academic misconduct includes:

- cheating (using unauthorized materials, information, or study aids in any academic exercise), plagiarism, falsification of records, unauthorized possession of examinations, intimidation, and any and all other actions that may improperly affect the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement;
- assisting others in any such act; or attempting to engage in such acts.

All acts of academic misconduct will be reported and adjudicated as prescribed by the student code of the University of Oklahoma. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity.

Accommodation Statement

The University of Oklahoma is committed to making its activities as accessible as possible. For accommodations on the basis of disability, please contact your local OU Site Director.

Course Policies

Advanced Programs policy is to order books in paperback if available. Courses, dates, and professors are subject to change. Please check with your OU Site Director. Students should retain a copy of any assignments that are mailed to the professor for the course. Advanced Programs does not provide duplicating services or office supplies.
