Course Outline:

I. Introduction; logistics of course; overview of cultural diversity and relations; discuss first paper (collaborative exercise).  Due (no exceptions): Initial personal understanding of cultural diversity and relations (either US or global)

II. Dimensions, concepts, and issues of cultural diversity related to race and ethnicity in US society, the world, the workplace, and other types of formal and informal organizations (mini-lecture, personal assessment, class discussion, and a video presentation)

III. Concepts and issues related to social class and sexism (mini-lecture, collaborative exercise, and video presentation).

IV. Issues related to ageism, religious diversity, and sexual orientation (collaborative exercise, class presentations, and a video presentation).

V. Issues of physical and mental disability, weight and appearance, and concept of reasonable accommodation (collaborative exercise, case studies, video presentation, and a simulation exercise).

VI. Possible resolution of cultural diversity issues; development of cultural diversity education and training (mini-lecture, class discussion, and a collaborative exercise). Due: Three mini-reports

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:

Consistent with the tradition of a graduate seminar, the course has been designed to be highly-interactive, providing the students with plenty of opportunities for active student learning and participation, which is considered critical to the success of the course. The course will consist of open class discussions, collaborative learning exercises, team and individual presentations, lectures, PowerPoint presentations, video presentations, and relevant simulation exercises.

Readings:

Consistent with pre-class expectations, read the required textbook prior to the first class session.

Report on Personal Understanding of Cultural Diversity:

Based on the readings from the textbook and/or your personal knowledge and experience with any form of cultural diversity, write a three to four paged report explaining your personal understanding of the topic (e.g., how do you see or assess the current status of cultural diversity or relations in the US or elsewhere; why do you think cultural conflicts are common place in the US or elsewhere; and how do you think peoples may begin to alleviate or resolve some of the issues you have articulated. These essays will form the bases for initial discussion about cultural diversity and relations. Due: This assignment must be turned in to the professor at the first class session.

Literature Search:

Search in the literature base for three separate scholarly pieces of work involving theories, concepts, or issues related to cultural diversity or relations in the US or elsewhere. Each paper should deal with a different aspect of cultural diversity (such as race, religion, gender, social class, or nationality). These materials may be from refereed and non-referred journals, books, monographs, magazines, or well-circulated newspapers, training documents, and even the internet (use your discretion when using this medium).
Mini-Reports:

Using the results of the literature search, you are required to write a three to four paged mini-report on all three scholarly pieces, totaling about 9-12 pages. In each mini-report, give a brief discussion of the points raised (no more than one paragraph) and then analyze the points using the concepts of cultural diversity and relations discussed in class or covered in the textbook. You may, for example, explain why these points make or do not make sense to you, the logic or completeness of their arguments, and the potential implications of these concepts for understanding, managing, improving, or resolving cultural diversity issues in the workplace or globally.

This exercise is calling for your analysis of the points rather than a journalist reporting of the article or book. Due: This assignment will be due at the last class session. This exercise, in essence, serves as your final exam.

Term Paper:

In order to enhance your understanding of cultural diversity issues on a self-directed basis, you have two options for the required term paper for the course. You may be required to seek additional scholarly resources beyond the required textbook to complete this assignment.

a. You may write a paper based on an eye-ball account (real-life account or experience) of an important aspect of cultural diversity or relations in any sociological or organizational setting (e.g., informal sub-groups, businesses, military, state or federal educational agencies, colleges or universities, the United States or another country, or transnational). You should use concepts and issues of cultural diversity or relations covered or discussed in the textbook and in class and include additional scholarly resources to support your arguments or analyses. You should address the following points in your paper:

   i. How is the collective entity or sociological group organized? Who are its people, leaders, and followers? What is the objective of the entity?
   ii. How do its leaders, managers, opinion makers, followers, and other constituents communicate?
   iii. What cultural diversity issues and problems are currently happening and confronting them? How are these issues defined, and by whom?
   iv. How are some of these issues eliminated, resolved, or alleviated? What paradigms, organizing principles, or theoretical underpinnings are used? Are there benchmarks or expected outcomes developed? Who are in charge of monitoring these expected outcomes?
   v. What are the strengths and weaknesses of how the entity or its leaders, followers, and constituents deal with these issues? What issues or procedures are not addressed, and how might some of these issues be improved or handled differently?
   vi. What are some important lessons that can be learned from this particular experience?

b. You may write a conventional term paper on a cultural diversity or relations issue. You should have at a minimum six bibliographic references in your paper, not including the textbook. In this option, you should address the following points:

   i. What is the cultural diversity issue you are addressing?
   ii. How did this issue come about? What is the historical or evolutionary background of this issue?
   iii. Why is this issue important or significant for peoples, organizations, or countries?
   iv. What are all the relevant perspectives, theories, or opinions, on the issue?
   v. What are the possible resolutions of this issue?
   vi. What are the implications of this issue for peoples, organizations, or countries?
In either case, your term paper should be between seven and ten double-spaced pages. Please send in your paper as an e-mail attachment (MS Word document), not as an email message. My e-mail address is dтан@ou.edu. This paper will be due two weeks from the last day of class, November 16, 2016.

Grading:

This is a letter-graded course: A, B, C, D, or F. The criteria for the student’s final course grade are as follows:

- 10% is based on your scholarly writing in report on personal understanding of cultural diversity
- 30% in mini-reports
- 40% in term paper
- The remaining 20% is based on the quality of your active participation in class.

At the end of class, there will be an opportunity for you to offer intra- and inter-team evaluations relative to other students’ performances in collaborative activities.

The quality of your class participation is determined by three factors: (1) your active participation in open class discussions; (2) your participation in collaborative work based on intra- and inter-team evaluations; and (3) the quality of your class presentations.

The penalty for late papers will be a 10% reduction to your overall course grade.

Notice: Failure to meet assignment due dates could result in a grade of I (Incomplete) and may adversely impact Tuition Assistance and/or Financial Aid.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc…in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc…; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/
