Teaching/Learning Methods:

There is an expectation of student initiative in pursuing intellectual inquiry and individual motivation to learn and active participation in class learning activities. I expect that everyone will participate and interact in class discussion. This course involves a variety of teaching techniques, such as lectures, small class discussions, class discussion based on previous readings (from text book and other designated sources), videos and class exercises, student presentations and short written papers.

Assignments, Grading and Due dates:

Assignment 1 - Paper due March 17, 2017

Ethics and professional conduct during one’s career are based on values. What are your three most salient values? Where did you learn them? How did they impact your decision to become a counselor? Find examples of these values on either an implicit or explicit level in the American Code of Ethics (in Required Text Only 5th edition pages 405 – 413). Be specific in citing specific sections of the code. (500 word report due for discussion in class).

Assignment 2 - Paper due March 26, 2017

American families are diverse and are represented in a number of ways. From television shows and movies do an annotated bibliography/Summary of how families are depicted. Include at least 4 shows and/or movies. Analyze one family in depth in regard to its health and dysfunctionality, i.e., what interactions in the family over time support your assessment based on the materials in chapters 1 and 2 of the required text. Share your paper (which should be between 4 to 6 pages not including cover page and references) with the class on the March 26th 2017. Please post paper on D2L.

Assignment 3 – Genogram - Paper due March 26, 2017

Part 1:

Purpose: This exercise introduces the student to one strategy for organizing information about the individual and his/her family and applying theories to offer some possible ways of “understanding” family functioning and family influence. Students will also be given the opportunity to gain understanding of their own experiences and attitudes that will influence you as a family therapist. Self-reflection is a personal tool that can be developed throughout a graduate program.

- Create a genogram (on sheets of paper no poster boards) covering 3 generations (this may be your children, you, and your parents; you, your parents, and grandparents; etc.)
- You should note the relationships/interrelationships between people and across generations.
- Note relevant dates: e.g., births, marriage, separations, deaths, and any important external events, like war. This is like a “family timeline of events.”
- Note type of relationships: e.g., strong, weak, conflicted.
• You should note major stories, identifications; secrets/myths

Because this is personal material, you may wish to limit what you share with the class, or, for that matter, with me. Note: You do not have to reveal any information that you choose not to reveal. I consider any information that you disclose to me will be confidential.

Part 2:

After you have completed a family genogram, this section will be in narrative form to explore your family makeup and history. Your paper should be 8-10 pages long. Discuss your family of origin’s history and define issues such as disengagement/enmeshment, cutoffs, marriages and separations. Include issues of culture, ethnicity, religion, occupation, education, and transactions between family members (past and present). Describe family values, family rules and problems, and responses to problems. Consider the following areas and discuss how they played out in your family. Include specific examples of events, issues and patterns and how the family reacted to them. How do they affect you now? What are the generational patterns down through the years? How is power used and misused throughout the family patterns? What roles were rigid and reinforced; who were the rebels?

Highlight four issues, positive or negative, arising from your family of origin, which may impact on your work as a family therapist. For positives, how do you see yourself drawing upon this strength in your work? How could it benefit clients? For negatives, how do you see yourself adjusting or accommodating for your own patterns so they will not interfere with your ability to work with families or couples? What do you need to learn, do, or change to remove or diminish this particular weakness? Be sure and include both positive and negative aspects of your family background. This is your story/narrative. Please post paper on D2L.

Further information about assignments will be provided during first day of class

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc…in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc…; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/

Accommodation Statement

The University of Oklahoma is committed to making its activities as accessible as possible. For accommodations on the basis of disability, please contact your local OU Site Director.

Adjustment for Pregnancy/Childbirth-Related Issues

Should you need modifications or adjustments to your course requirements because of documented pregnancy-related or childbirth-related issues, please contact me as soon as possible to discuss. Generally, modifications will be made where medically necessary and similar in scope to accommodations based on temporary disability. Please see http://www.ou.edu/content/eoo/faqs/pregnancy-faqs.html.
Title IX Resources

For any concerns regarding gender-based discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, stalking, or intimate partner violence, the University offers a variety of resources, including advocates on-call 24/7, counseling services, mutual no-contact orders, scheduling adjustments, and disciplinary sanctions against the perpetrator. Please contact the Sexual Misconduct Office at smo@ou.edu or (405) 325-2215 (8-5), or the Sexual Assault Response Team at (405) 615 -0013 (24/7) to report an incident.
