Course Title:
Seminar in Latin American History: U.S. Relations with Cuba

Course Number:
HIST 6300-220

Course Description:
This graduate seminar will explore the many dimensions of the history of the relationship between the United States and Cuba, from Cuban “independence” in 1898 to the present. Emphasis will be placed on relations between the two countries in the early twentieth century, the role of organized crime and casino tourism in the 1950s, the Cuban Revolution, the years of the U.S. embargo towards Cuba, the “Special Period” (after the fall of the Soviet Union), and now into the post-Fidel years. We will take a chronological and thematic approach to the class, using a variety of books, essays, and articles to try to explain the strained relations between the two countries. The course will include a foray into cultural dimensions of Cuban transnational relations that include music, film, and sports.

Class Dates, Location and Hours:
Dates: March 24-29, 2015
Location: Geilenkirchen NATO Base, Germany. Education Center.
Hours: Tue-Fri 6:00-9:30 pm; Sat-Sun 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Course Objectives:
The primary focus of this seminar will be to introduce a variety of themes to students on the history of the relations between the United States and Cuba. The goal is for students to come to an understanding and appreciation for this strained relationship—how it became so, the main results of it, the historical and economic implications, and where things stand today. America’s foreign policy towards Cuba, especially since 1959, has been manifestly different from that of the rest of Latin America, and in this class we shall attempt to understand why. We will also consider regional responses (from Latin America and the Caribbean, the Organization of American States, etc.) to the U.S. position towards Cuba. Emphasis will be on examining change over time with the relations (economic, political, diplomatic) between the two nations. Like any such topic regarding U.S. overseas involvement, there is a wide array of interpretations on this history—important aspects we will consider and evaluate in the course. And as in all history classes, a side objective will be to continue developing students’ ability to think and write critically, and developing both analytical and discussion skills.

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:

Pre-Course Assignment:
This will be a 6 to 8-page paper analyzing the Pérez book on the Spanish-American War (required to purchase). Read the book very carefully to pick up on the author’s important points and insights. Along the way, for context read Chapter 1 (by Dunkerley) that I have posted on D2L from the book The United States and Latin America: The New Agenda, and the Introduction and Chapter 1 in the Morley and McGillion book (another of the required books to purchase). Provide a review and reaction to the Pérez book, and add insights that you learned from the other readings and how they all apply or combine together here. Be constructively critical (strengths and weaknesses), including on the style and tone of the book and other readings. As a “reaction paper” the review should also include a personal perspective. What did you take away from these readings? What struck you the most, and why? Each reaction paper should be no longer 8 pages, double-spaced, correct margins, 12 font, and making use of proper citation style (any style each student would rather use, just be consistent). 15 points, due no later than Tue. Mar. 17 by e-mail Word.doc attachment to Dr. Evans.

In-Class Quizzes:
These will be short and to the point over readings to be discussed on the days indicated (Wed. Mar. 25, Fri. Mar. 27, and Sat. Mar. 28). 5 points each
Final Exam:
This will be a comprehensive exam over material covered for the six days of this course. The format will be short paragraph answers and one longer essay, taking no more than two and a half hours of the final class period (Sun. Mar. 29). 25 points

Class Participation:
In-class discussion of topics and readings is essential for this seminar-style course. It also demonstrates critical understanding and analysis of material. 20 points

Post-Course Assignment:
This assignment seeks to combine students’ review and reaction to readings with a bit of their own research. First, read the Haney and Vanderbush book and Chapter 5 of the Morley and McGillion book. In the same fashion as you did for assignment 1 (above), provide your review and reactions. Then, by using primary sources from the New York Times or Washington Post (or both)—found online—track U.S.-Cuban relations as reported by these newspapers (in, say, the last 40 years or most recently). Use at least 5 or 6 articles or editorials on a specific aspect of the foreign policy between these 2 countries, or it can be more in general, too. Whatever the student seeks to research or is able to find will work here. Blend that primary research into your review of the readings to discuss this U.S.-Cuba history. Paper should be 8 to 10 pages, double-spaced, using correct margins, 12 font, and making use of proper citation style (again, any style the student chooses to use, just be consistent). 25 points, due no later than 3 weeks after the end of the course, or Sun. Apr. 19, as a Word.doc e-mail sent to Dr. Evans.

Grading:
This is a letter-graded course: A, B, C, D, or F. Final course grades will be based on the following:

Notice: Failure to meet assignment due dates could result in a grade of I (Incomplete) and may adversely impact Tuition Assistance and/or Financial Aid.
POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act which improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc... in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc...; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/
