Course Title:
Field Studies in Education: Theories of Exceptional Children

Course Number:
EDSP 5940-221

Course Description:
This is a graduate level course that examines the nature, characteristics, practices and issues relating to the education of exceptional learners. Course information is designed to introduce you to information and practices traditionally associated with the field of special education. This course is also about persons with disabilities (and abilities) in your school and community settings. It is about gaining insight about characteristics and issues that influence the lives of individuals often referred to as "exceptional learners. Stop and reflect about when you were a student in grade school. How many of your classmates were persons with a disability? Were any of these disabilities obvious, such as blindness or a physical impairment like cerebral palsy? What about those individuals who were really talented in areas like athletics, math, or music - but could not read and/or write like their friends? Depending on how we choose to define "exceptional," it is very likely that close to 8% percent of all students in your school fell into the category of being exceptional. Think of it this way - for every class of 30 students, two were eligible for special education services. More importantly, approximately 90% of students in special education have what are called "mild" or "high incidence" disabilities, where there is no noticeable physical disability. You could not tell who these students were by looking at them. So, how many persons with a disability do you think you really knew is school?

Persons with disabilities occupy a variety of productive roles in society. Some are lawyers, doctors, teachers, laborers, or food-service personnel. They are members of all cultures. Others require life-long support from friends and family members, and will never be able to live independently in our community. On any given day in school or the community, persons with disabilities face a variety of challenges. For example, persons with disabilities are often stereotyped by inappropriate attitudes that create behavioral roles about them that are not accurate. Sometimes we react negatively to a person's label or physical appearance because it is more conspicuous. Some people inappropriately respond with pity, patronization, and fear; while others respond more accordingly, by accepting, understanding, and teaching. In this course, we strive to be the latter person.

It is incumbent upon us to provide a supportive environment for all persons with disabilities in school and community settings. This course helps us do that – by examining the nature, characteristics, practices and issues relating to the education of special populations in our schools and community.

Note: If you choose to read the course articles and chapters posted on D2L using an iPad or some other handheld device make sure to use an app that will allow you to highlight and make notes. This will aid you greatly in the in-class discussions.

Following In-Person Class Meetings: February 2 - February 22, 2015

Weeks 6, 7, & 8: Complete your eResource Collection and final paper your approved topic of choice. Submit paper via the D2L Dropbox no later than midnight on Sunday, February 22, 2015.

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:

Participation (150 points; 15%)

It is expected that each individual will attend class and actively participate in class discussions and in-class activities (typically individual and small group activities). All readings should be completed by their assigned dates, and additional readings not presently listed in the syllabus may be assigned (there will always be advance notice).

Prior to In-Person Class Meetings Reading Activities (200 points; 20%)

Prior to the face-to-face class meetings, you will be reading the primary course text (Turnbull, et al., 2013) and completing a set of weekly assignments related to the information presented in the chapters. Go to the Prior to In-Person Class Meetings Folder in D2L, to obtain the assignments. The assignments are to be uploaded to the D2L Dropbox using the due dates listed in the Prior to In-Person Class Meetings section above.
In-class Presentation/Leading Class Discussion (200 points; 20%)
On the first day of class you will select (or “negotiate,” or use Roshambo [link to Wikipedia entry for Rock-paper-scissors] if necessary) one of the topics/issues that interests you in Behan (2015). You will present to your classmates, your perspective on the topic/issue and will lead a class discussion on that topic/issue. You will also share with the class four of the resources from your eResource collection. The plan for presentations and discussions will be reviewed in class and/or posted on D2L. For example, you will be expected to prepare a PowerPoint or Keynote presentation. You will be expected to cross-reference content (verbally and/or on the slides) with elements cited in Turnbull et al. (2013) and content discussed in class. You will lead class discussion regarding the salience of the topic/issue. You will turn in a your presentation slides on the day of your presentation. In addition you will complete a 2-3 page summary/reflection on this experience, detailing the main points that you chose to highlight regarding the topic/issue, the relevant points that you think your class members attended to, whether your position on the topic/issue changed as the result of discussion, and why you selected the four resources to share with the class. Upload your paper to the D2L Dropbox, by midnight, Thursday, February 5. Graded assignments will be returned to students via email.

eResource Collection and Application/Reflection Paper (250 points; 25%)
You are to compile an electronic “folder” containing 10 resources on instructional strategies for students with disabilities. The ideal resource folder contains a set of articles/materials/documents that directly enable teachers to perform classroom instruction or manage student behavior more effectively. Please refer to assignment description posted on D2L. Also note that you will present to the class information from four of these resources. Upload your paper to the D2L Dropbox, by midnight, Sunday, February 22. Graded assignments will be returned to students via email.

Final Paper (200 points; 20%)
Your paper will cover either (a) the topic you choose for your class presentation/discussion on an issue related to Behan (2015), (b) one of the other topics/issues in Behan (2015), or (c) a topic/issue you negotiate with the instructor during the face-to-face class sessions. Conduct a literature review related to the topic/issue and find at least 8 peer-reviewed sources. You are expected to present a balanced view from the literature covering both sides of the issue, but you will also include a defendable perspective regarding your opinion/judgment regarding the issue. Write an 8-10 page paper integrating and summarizing your review of the literature, which includes a discussion and conclusion section. It should be double-spaced and follow APA guidelines. Upload your paper to the D2L Dropbox, by midnight, Sunday, February 22. Graded papers will be returned to students via email.

Makeup Papers:
Unless otherwise specified, you will be expected to prepare a separate 3-page Makeup Paper for any class discussion topic and/or article missed due to late arrival, early departure, or absence from class. For example, if you miss the entire class scheduled for Thursday, you will be required to prepare three papers (i.e., one each, for communication disorder, behavior disorder, and intellectual disabilities). All Makeup Papers should include: (1) the overall thesis or argument (including the stated or implied problem and solution); (2) significant concepts and illustrative examples provided in the assignments; and (3) the implications of the overall thesis and concepts and examples for special education and general education, as well as your own current or anticipated teaching areas. Make-up Papers should be submitted no later than seven days following the missed event/occurrence. Also please note that these Make-up Papers are not a substitution for class attendance. They merely provide an indication of your understanding of the materials you were unable to discuss in class.

Alternative Forms of Expression:
Unless otherwise specified, you are expected to turn in assignments using traditional forms of expression (e.g., written assignments). For students with disabilities, please discuss with the instructor your desire to communicate your knowledge/learning via multiple means for expression.
Grading:
This is a letter-graded course: A (900-1000 points); B (800-899); C (700-799); D (650-699); or F (0-649).

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor-mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. It is the policy of the University to excuse absences of students that result from religious observances and to provide without penalty for the rescheduling of examinations and additional required class work that may fall on religious holidays. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy. Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Integrity and Student Conduct

Academic integrity means honesty and responsibility in scholarship. Academic assignments exist to help students learn; grades exist to show how fully this goal is attained. Therefore all work and all grades should result from the student's own understanding and effort.

Academic misconduct is any act that improperly affects the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement. Misconduct occurs when the student either knows or reasonably should know that the act constitutes misconduct. Academic misconduct includes: cheating and using unauthorized materials on examinations and other assignments; improper collaboration, submitting the same assignment for different classes (self-plagiarism); fabrication, forgery, alteration of documents, lying, etc. in order to obtain an academic advantage; assisting others in academic misconduct; attempting to commit academic misconduct; destruction of property, hacking, etc.; intimidation and interference with integrity process; and plagiarism. All students should review the Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity at http://integrity.ou.edu/students_guide.html

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All students should review policies regarding student conduct at http://studentconduct.ou.edu/
