Advanced Programs – Course Syllabus

Course Title:
Current Problems in Human Relations

Course Number:
HR 5013-225

Course Description:
The world we live in is rapidly changing. Advances in science, technology, transportation and communication have served to intensify some human problems and to create a host of new ones. Our survival and the quality of our existence depend on successfully dealing with modern human social problems. In this course we will examine the major problems facing humanity in terms of origins, current status, and possible solutions.

Note: The Follett/AP Bookstore is the Advanced Programs contractual textbook provider. Should text changes become necessary after publication of the course syllabus, Advanced Programs will facilitate text returns/refunds only for texts purchased through the Follett/AP Bookstore.
Course Objectives:
At the end of this course the student will have:
1. a better understanding of the biological, psychological, and sociological origins of human problems;
2. become familiar with data regarding the current status of selected human problems;
3. critically evaluated proposed solutions for current human problems; and,
4. participated in discussions of human problems with other class members (active participation in class discussions is expected and encouraged).

Assignments, Grading and Due Dates:
Student performance in this course will be evaluated in terms of mastery and the final grade will be based on fulfillment of a contract between student and professor (see copy at the end of this syllabus).

To obtain a C in this course requires earning 310 points. To earn these points, the student will be required to 1) read the entire textbook and take the Multiple Choice Exam for each chapter(10 points each=total possible points of 150). The exams can be accessed by going to www.mysoclab.com and entering the course password which is Walker97425. Then, select Study Plan and Assignments; click on Enter; and, click on each chapter to take the exam for that chapter. If you have any difficulty, contact the IT help on the site. Note: To receive credit for this assignment, each chapter quiz must be passed with a score of 70% or higher. If you score less than 70% on any of the chapters, you must write a paragraph for each item missed in which you explain why your answer was wrong and why the keyed answer is the best choice. These paragraphs are to be placed in your file to be submitted at the end of the course; and 2) attend all classes (if a class is missed due to illness or a legitimate emergency, a make-up assignment must be completed). Each class session attended earns 20 points. There are eight class sessions (four week nights, two morning, and two afternoon sessions on Saturday and Sunday). Total points possible for class attendance is 20 X 8 = 160.

Failure to complete the above will result in a grade of D (200-309 points) or F (0-199 points).

To obtain a B for the course, the student must earn 600 points. This total will be based on the 310 points earned for assignments required to earn a C and additional points earned as follows: 1) make an oral presentation to the class (150 points) on a social problem (see suggested outline below); and 2) keep a journal beginning 21 days before class and continuing during class (total of 26 days, each entry earns five points—5 X 26 = 140 points), in which a daily entry is made regarding thoughts and observations relevant to the material covered in the course. Journal entries may be a couple of sentences or a paragraph in length, and should be dated. Appropriate content are your thoughts, reflections, ideas, reactions, experiences, etc., related to the social problems that are covered in the text and the class sessions.

The oral presentation mentioned in #1 above should be 10-20 minutes in length. Suggested outline for this presentation is as follows (this may not be suitable for all presentations and you may use a different organization if you wish):

1. Discuss the origins of the problem you have chosen from three vantage points: biology, psychology, and sociology.
2. Which of these vantage points seems to be the most helpful in understanding the problem?
3. Suggest a possible solution to the problem from each vantage point.
4. If time permits, lead a discussion or direct the class in an exercise to illustrate the points you have made.

Students are encouraged to be prepared to give oral presentations starting with the second class session to avoid having all the presentations the final day.

To obtain an A in this course 780-800 points must be earned. This total will be earned based on the 600 points earned for a grade of B and an additional 200 points earned by submitting a book review. Books for review may be selected from the list provided at the end of the syllabus. The book review should cover the following outline:
Book Review Outline

- Give full information about the book including title, author, publisher, date of publication, number of pages and cost.
- Provide some biographical information about the author. Some information of this sort is included on the cover of the book. An Internet search using any of the major search engines will yield a considerable amount of information. Additional information can be found in any number of library reference sources such as Who's Who in America, The Dictionary of Scientific Biography, American Men and Women of Science, Current Authors, Contemporary Authors, Something About the Author, Current Biography, and Dictionary of American Biography. If you have trouble finding information, ask the OU reference librarian to assist you.
- Discuss the background of the book. Why did the author decide to write this book? Information about this can be found in the preface and introduction to the book. Much useful information of this sort can also be found in other reviews of the book. These can be located in The Book Review Digest, an annual reference on reviews of books. Do not copy from these reviews for your paper. Your review should be your own creation.
- In two or three pages, briefly summarize the main points that the author presents in the book.
- Evaluate and critique the author’s points. Here you may agree or disagree with the author. Either is fine as long as you clearly present your reasons. Can the author’s points be accepted at face value or is the author mistaken? Are any of the author’s ideas particularly interesting or provocative? Is there another side to the discussion that the author has not given sufficient consideration?
- Briefly react to the book. Did you like it? What did you learn from the book? How did the concepts in the book contribute to your education and personal development?

Excessive errors in spelling, grammar, or word usage will result in reduced credit for the review. It is strongly recommended that you have a knowledgeable friend or colleague read your review and offer feedback on writing style and mechanics.

Course File

On the final day of class, students will submit a file (use a standard office file folder) containing materials to be used to determine the course grade. The file should contain the following materials in the order listed (front to back) depending on the grade desired:

1. Course contract.
2. Exam questions with corrections for any exams where your score was less than 70%
3. Course journal.
4. One-page outline of oral presentation.
5. Book review.

NOTE: Attendance at all classes and submission of coursework according to assigned deadlines is required. You must coordinate, in advance of the on-site seminar, any foreseen deviations from the attendance or coursework submission requirements with the instructor for approval. Failure to meet or coordinate deviations from the attendance guidelines with the instructor may result in a lower grade being assigned. Failure to meet or coordinate deviations from the coursework submission requirements may result in a grade of "I" (incomplete) or "U" (unsatisfactory) being assigned, or the work NOT being accepted. AS your professor, I understand the workload and associated issues involved in teaching to a military audience and will do everything I can to help you meet your educational goals. Call on me if I can be of assistance.

NOTICE: Failure to meet assignment due dates could result in a grade of I (Incomplete) and may adversely impact Tuition Assistance and/or Financial Aid.

PLEASE ARRIVE ON TIME FOR CLASS. Students who arrive late for class violate the University of Oklahoma policy on the total number of teacher-student contact hours required for award of graduate credit in the intensified teaching format. Additionally, such students jeopardize their chance for a higher grade by missing lecture material and decreasing their part in class participation.
Approved Reading List for Current Social Problems

NOTE: Choose one of the books below that you have not read before and read it. A book not listed may be substituted with prior approval of the instructor. Any book by a social reformer (e.g. Martin Luther King) about a social phenomenon (e.g. war—The Greatest Generation) or dealing with a social issue (e.g. Cokie Roberts-We Are Our Mothers’ Daughters) may be selected. Suitable books can readily be found in the bookstore on Base or on the Internet (e.g. Amazon.com or BarnesandNoble.com for new books and Bookfinder.com for used or out of print books). Be sure to check out www.Bookfinder.com. It is an excellent source with prompt service. Books also will be sent promptly from the OU library if requested - see instructions at www.occe.ou.edu/ap. Some of the books on the list are recent. Others are older, but still very relevant and well worth reading.

- The Power Elite. C. Wright Mills and Alan Wolfe, 2002
- Black Like Me. John Howard Griffin, 2003. As an experiment, a white man colors his skin and experiences treatment that Blacks were subjected to in the late 1950s. Originally published in 1961.
- In Their Own Behalf: Voices From the Margin. Charles H McCaghy (Ed), 1968.
- Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass, an American Slave, Written by Himself. Frederick Douglass, 1881.
- Girls of Tender Age. Mary-Ann Tirone Smith, 2007. A memoir in which she alternates her own experiences as a child growing up in 1950s Hartford, Conn., with chapters on Robert Nelson Malm, who was tried and executed for the rape and murder of one of her fifth-grade classmates.
- Thinking About Crime, James Q. Wilson, 1992. Argues that criminal activity is largely rational, shaped by rewards and penalties it offers versus the outcome of other available activities.
- The Social Transformation of American Medicine, Paul Starr, 1982. Winner of the 1983 Pulitzer Prize and the Bancroft Prize in American History, this is a landmark history of how the entire American health care system of doctors, hospitals, health plans, and government programs has evolved over the last two centuries.
- Street Woman. Elanor Miller, 1986. In this well done study, Eleanor Miller analyzes the social organization of street hustling and the lives of the women involved in it
- Angela’s Ashes. Frank McCourt, 1996 Memoir of a childhood involving parental alcoholism and child abuse

POLICIES AND NOTICES

Attendance/Grade Policy

Attendance and participation in interaction, individual assignments, group exercises, simulations, role playing, etc. are valuable aspects of any course because much of the learning comes from discussions in class with other students. It is expected that you attend all classes and be on time except for excused emergencies.

Excused absences are given for professor mandated activities or legally required activities such as emergencies or military assignments. Unavoidable personal emergencies, including (but not limited to) serious illness; delays in getting to class because of accidents, etc.; deaths and funerals, and hazardous road conditions will be excused.

If you are obtaining financial assistance (TA, STAP, FA, VA, Scholarship, etc.) to pay all or part of your tuition cost, you must follow your funding agency/institution’s policy regarding “I” (Incomplete) grades unless the timeline is longer than what the University policy allows then you must adhere to the University policy.

Students who receive Financial Aid must resolve/complete any “I” (Incomplete) grades by the end of the term or he/she may be placed on “financial aid probation.” If the “I” grade is not resolved/completed by the end of the following term, the student’s Financial Aid may be suspended make the student ineligible for further Financial Aid.

Students are responsible for meeting the guidelines of Tuition Assistance and Veterans Assistance. See the education counselor at your local education center for a complete description of your TA or VA requirements.

Academic Honesty

Honesty is a fundamental precept in all academic activities and … [you] have a special obligation to observe the highest standards of honesty. Academic misconduct in any form is inimical to the purposes and functions of the University and is therefore unacceptable and is rigorously proscribed. Academic misconduct includes:

- cheating (using unauthorized materials, information, or study aids in any academic exercise), plagiarism, falsification of records, unauthorized possession of examinations, intimidation, and any and all other actions that may improperly affect the evaluation of a student’s academic performance or achievement; assisting others in any such act; or attempting to engage in such acts.

All acts of academic misconduct will be reported and adjudicated as prescribed by the student code of the University of Oklahoma. All students should review the “Student’s Guide to Academic Integrity” found at http://www.ou.edu/provost/integrity

Accommodation Statement

The College of Continuing Education [Advanced Programs] is committed to making its activities as accessible as possible. For accommodations on the basis of disability, please contact your OU Site Director.

Course Policies

Advanced Programs policy is to order books in paperback if available. Courses, dates, and professors are subject to change. Please check with your OU Site Director. Students should retain a copy of any assignments that are mailed to the professor for the course.
