Improved Course Grading for Fall 2012

Instructors will find some improvements to the grading system in oZONE when grading for fall 2012 begins.

- All courses an instructor has to grade will be displayed on the page that appears when the instructor clicks on the link in the Faculty Grade Assignment channel in ozone.ou.edu. This is an improvement for those instructors with many sections who have had to use an alternative method to see all their courses.

- Any midterm grades that were submitted will display on the grading page.

- The messaging that appears when grades are successfully saved, or when there errors in grade assignment, is much more prominent. Reviewing the status of course grading is also much improved.

- Contact information for students is available on the grading page.

- A course grading template is available for instructors to export to use to maintain their grades if they wish.

- Instructors will be able to export their grades in an oZONE template to use for the semester. They will also be able to import grades either from an exported oZONE template, or from a spreadsheet exported from D2L, or from a personal spreadsheet. This new functionality could be of particular interest to instructors with large class sections.

See oZONE Faculty Grade Assignment channel for grading instructions.
See Exporting and Importing Grades in oZONE for instructions to export/import grades in oZONE.
These instructions are also linked to the Training and Instructions for Faculty and Staff page in the oZONE Information web site.