

Doctoral Program

The Gaylord College offers excellent funding for up to five students per year. The following two packages are highly competitive with other programs around the country.

Gaylord Ph.D. Assistantships

- $18,000 stipend per year for three years. Fellows will teach and do research for 20 hours per week during each academic year.
- Waiver of nine hours of non-resident portion of tuition and seven hours of resident portion of tuition.
- Student health insurance (“Plan II”) with the option of buying additional insurance for the fellow or dependents.

Gaylord Ph.D. Fellowships

- $18,000 stipend per year for three years. Fellows will teach and do research for 20 hours per week during each academic year.
- Full waiver of tuition and fees.
- $1,000 per year for travel to present research papers at conferences.
- Student health insurance (“Plan II”) with the option of buying additional insurance for the fellow or dependents.

Other funding opportunities may also be available. Students may seek assistance through the University Office of Financial Aid Services for federal loans and grants. For more information about University tuition and fees, please visit bursar.ou.edu/tuition_fees.cfm
