Arban Expansion Pack

J. B. Arban's "Complete Method for Trumpet", first published circa 1859, is essential practice material for brass musicians. The primary limitation is that it is written in the harmonic language of the mid-nineteenth century. My work adapts these exercises to the tonal language of contemporary music.

A draft has been completed and reviewed by five professional musicians. I hope to hire a student skilled in using Finale music notation software to convert my draft into a final manuscript. Once this is complete, I hope to publish it as an open educational resource to ensure maximum distribution.
