We are pleased to extend an invitation to you for a special guided tour and workshop at the newly inaugurated SCC facility at Norman, organized with the esteemed support/help of Dr. Yong Chen, Academic Division Chief in the Department of Radiation Oncology at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center.

This event is part of our ongoing workshop series, which highlights state-of-the-art medical imaging technologies and their applications in biomedical research. The visit to the SCC Norman facility will provide a unique opportunity to explore a cutting-edge clinical environment and engage in meaningful discussions with fellow researchers and clinicians.

We are confident that this initiative will foster deeper mutual understanding and serve as a catalyst for enhanced research collaboration within the cancer imaging community.
