Program Process and Design

There are various stages in proposing and building a program. To assist new faculty who have not been through the process, a guideline can be found here. The Education Abroad and Arezzo staff will be assisting faculty throughout these stages. There are a variety of program models possible, depending on the goals for the program. The proposal form will ask you to select 2-3 learning goals for your program. We encourage you to reach out to us if you would like to discuss potential program models and opportunities while planning your proposal.

Faculty-led programs are typically taught in English (with some exceptions for language study) and are relevant to the country or region. The course can be open to any discipline or a specific subset of major(s) if there is a wide enough pool of potential applicants. Programs can last up to 4 weeks during Spring Session and 6 weeks during the Summer term. Those that are 1-2 weeks can offer 3 credit hours and those that are 3-6 weeks are required to offer a minimum of 6 credit hours.

Selection Criteria

- Competitiveness
 - How many programs are being offered in Arezzo, term, general education category, and/or academic subject area?
 - Is there a sufficient student applicant pool for the program to make?
- Programs that have run successfully in the past are given preference, although some new programs will be selected each year.
 - Preference will be given to innovative or collaborative new programs that can expand access to study abroad in areas such as student demographic and course topic.
- Preference will be given to faculty with previous experience teaching, studying, researching abroad, or familiarity with Italy.
- Student Demand
 - Is the program attractive to the OU student body?
 - Is it feasible to arrange the proposed program within an appropriate budget?

Proposals can be submitted on an individual basis or as coordinated course(s) proposal between two faculty members. Faculty members should be willing to engage in student recruitment and pre-departure preparation and be able to adjust to the inevitable challenges of teaching and travelling abroad with college students.

Faculty will collaborate with the staff in Arezzo and the Office of Education Abroad to provide the highest standards of excellence for their program, especially in the areas of health, safety, security and risk management.

Proposal Requirements

- Cover letter summarizing your course proposal and articulating how it meets the general requirements and selection criteria
 - Include any country-specific experience or connection

- Include potential applicant pool and at least two recruitment ideas
- Include at minimum a list of sites to visit related to the course or country content. Please also add cities outside of Arezzo to be included in your itinerary if you wish to plan these as day trips or overnight stays.
