RESEARCH INTERESTS

To better understand and intervene upon mechanisms generating disparities in chronic disease among older U.S. adults. This work focuses on how exposure to chronic stressors rooted in social inequities over the life course (e.g., discrimination, ageism, race and gender ideologies, stressful life events) influence contextual, psychosocial, biological, and behavioral determinants of health. Emphasis on Black-White health disparities, innovative community-based health interventions, and health outcomes such as diabetes, cardiovascular disease, cancers, and multimorbidity.

Health disparities/equity • stress processes, biomarkers, & coping • older adults • cardiometabolic health • community-based interventions • social & structural determinants of health • intersectionality • evaluation

CURRENT

Office of the Vice President for Research & Partnerships (PI: Allen) 03/01/2023-03/31/2024
University of Oklahoma
Experiences of Aging in Society: Diversity and Disparities Study
This Junior Faculty Fellowship project proposes to advance research on racial and ethnic differences and disparities in ageism and its relationships to health including: 1) assessing the validity of the novel Everyday Ageism Scale in four different racial/ethnic groups of older US adults; 2) documenting racial/ethnic differences and disparities in amount and types of ageism experienced; and 3) determining whether associations between ageism and health vary by race/ethnicity, indicating some groups may be at greater risk for the negative health implications of ageism than others. Funded: $9,208, matching funds from research incentive account.
Role: Principal Investigator

Planning Phase for the Evaluation of the Oklahoma Creative Aging Initiative

The goals of this research are to cultivate an evaluation partnership and create a mutually beneficial arrangement in which OU graduate students enrolled in HES 5553 have the opportunity to apply and hone evaluation skills through the development of a preliminary evaluation plan for one Oklahoma Creative Aging Initiative program—the Creative Arts programming at Healthy Living OKC—under the mentorship of Dr. Allen. Activities include assembling descriptive program and administrative data, exploring potential health outcomes warranting consideration, creating a logic model, and development of a preliminary evaluation plan.

Role: Principal Investigator

Advancing Research on Ageism and Health: Psychometric Evaluation of the Everyday Ageism Scale and Health Mechanisms

This Junior Faculty Fellowship project will advance scientific research on the relationships between ageism and older adult health including: 1) further psychometric evaluation of the novel Everyday Ageism Scale; 2) investigation of how everyday ageism influences psychological, behavioral, and biological stress responses implicated in accelerated aging, chronic disease, and premature mortality; and 3) exploration of demographic variations in these phenomena.

Role: Principal Investigator

MI Center for Diabetes Translational Research (PIs: Mezuk, Kieffer, Thornton) 12/01/2018-11/30/2020
Strengthening a Community-Engaged Partnership to Address Disparities in Diabetes Care: Developing an alumni peer support program for the YMCA Diabetes Control Program

The goals of this research are to use a community-based participatory research (CBPR) framework to conduct a theory-driven, mixed methods study to: 1) assess the feasibility and acceptability of incorporating alumni peer support into the YMCA of Greater Richmond's diabetes self-management program; and 2) evaluate the impact of incorporating peer support on recruitment, retention, and short-term diabetes care outcomes among program participants and alumni peers.

MCUAAAR Supplement: Biobehavioral Stress Processes and Cardiometabolic Risk

This Michigan Center for Urban African American Aging Research (MCUAAAR) administrative supplement will examine biobehavioral processes linking exposure to stressors with disparities in cardiometabolic risk among midlife and older adults using three panel studies: CREATE, TRIAD, and RSASS.

Role: Co-Investigator and Project Coordinator

T32-AG000221 (PI: Bound)

Fellowship: 01/02/2018-08/14/2020

NIH/National Institute on Aging & The University of Michigan Population Studies Center

This training program provides specialized cross-disciplinary demographic training, with emphasis on socioeconomic, racial, and ethnic disparities in health.

Role: Postdoctoral Research Fellowship

University of Michigan UROP Supplementary Research Funding (PI: Allen/Mentee: Percha)

Psychosocial and Biobehavioral Mechanisms of Stress-Related Disease Research 10/01/2018-05/05/2019

The goal is to investigate how stress and coping with pervasive social inequities cause premature aging, chronic physiological distress, and associated racial disparities in chronic disease.

Role: Principal Investigator

University of Michigan Rackham Graduate School Fellowship: 09/01/2013-04/27/2018
The Rackham Merit Fellowship (RMF) Program helps sustain the academic excellence and inclusiveness of the Michigan graduate community.

Building Capacity to Reduce African American Men's Dietary Cancer Risk

The goal is to design and pilot a culturally and gender sensitive intervention to increase physical activity and dietary quality in urban, African American men through fraternities and other men's organizations.

Role: Project Manager

UM Institute for Research on Women and Gender (PI: Griffith)

02/01/2010-09/30/2011

African American Masculinities and Chronic Illness

This project will examine the impact African American men's notions of masculinity have on the social significance and medical management of chronic illnesses and the effects of living with different chronic illnesses on their notions of masculinity.

Role: Project Manager

UM Comprehensive Cancer Center Cancer Research Committee (PI: Griffith) 11/01/2009-07/31/2011

Men on the Move: A Pilot Program to Increase Physical Activity among Urban, African American Men

The goal is to develop and evaluate a pilot intervention to test the hypothesis that increasing access to gender and age-appropriate opportunities to learn about and engage in physical activity may increase urban African American men's rates and intensity of physical activity in Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Role: Research Manager

MI Center for Urban African American Aging Research (PI: Griffith)

07/01/2009-06/30/2010

Exploring Factors Associated with Diet and Physical Activity among Older, Urban African American Men

This grant will provide additional resources to analyze qualitative focus group data on older, African American men's eating and physical activity in three urban areas: Detroit, Flint and Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Role: Project Manager

The Ruth Mott Foundation (PI: Reischl)

07/01/2007-06/30/2010

Collaborative Evaluation of the Ruth Mott Foundation's Beautification Program

The goals of the project are to provide a grantee skill-building program and comprehensive evaluation of the Ruth Mott Foundations' beautification grant-making program in Flint.

Role: Research Associate

UM Comprehensive Cancer Center Cancer Research Committee (PI: Griffith) 02/01/2009-02/28/2010

Self-Determination Theory for Healthy Eating & Physical Activity among Urban, African American Men

The grant will allow us to systematically examine the implications of social and environmental factors for designing a tailored behavioral intervention to improve African American men's eating and physical activity.

Role: Project Manager
