If a student is not a member of the Honors College, they may be issued a permission to enroll in an Honors-designated course if:

- The course is not fully enrolled.
- Advance Registration has ended for the semester. This is to ensure that all active Honors College students have had a chance to enroll.
- The student has maintained a 3.4 OU GPA.

I understand that Honors-designated courses are smaller classes reserved for academically-talented students. The pace of class discussion may be quick, and the assignments may include more essay exams and written assignments. The Honors College does not accept any responsibility for my choice to place myself in this kind of learning environment.
